

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE

It's a Barbie World

BY HEATHER HAUNERT

Growing Up Barbie

As a child of the 1970s and 80s, there was no greater joy than spending hours immersed in the world of Barbie. These iconic dolls were more than just toys; they were portals to a realm of creativity, imagination, and endless possibilities. For many of us, growing up with Barbie was a formative experience, one that shaped our playtime and taught us valuable life lessons.

In the era before digital screens dominated our lives, Barbie provided an escape into a world of glamour, adventure, and friendship. We dressed her in the latest fashions, styled her hair in innovative ways (sometimes with mixed results), and orchestrated grand adventures with her friends and family. Whether it was a high-profile fashion show or an intrepid exploration of a makeshift cardboard box mansion, our imaginations soared with Barbie as the central figure in our narratives.

An Icon is Born

The launch of the first Barbie doll by Mattel in 1959 marked a revolutionary moment in the history of toys. Barbie, with her fashion-forward style and diverse careers, became an iconic cultural figure, setting the stage for a new era of imaginative play and sparking conversations about gender roles and empowerment.

Barbie's First Friends

In the early 1960s, Barbie's first friends brought even more depth to her world of imagination. Ken Carson, the charming and handsome boyfriend, became the iconic male companion, joining Barbie on countless adventures and sparking imaginative play. Midge Hadley, with her friendly demeanor, quickly became Barbie's best friend, sharing in the fun and making every story richer. Additionally, Allan Sherwood, introduced as Midge's boyfriend. Together, Ken, Midge, and Allan exemplified the spirit of friendship, love, and companionship that has been a timeless hallmark of Barbie's world, setting the stage for the diverse cast of characters that would follow in their footsteps.

Want to discover more Barbie history? Check out the full blog post HERE.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE

BABIES BORN IN 1910 RETURNS STILL INCOMPLETE

Jefferson and Churdan Reports Not Yet In, Cousequently Comparison With 1909 Cannot Yet be Made.

Hereinafter is given a contin-uation of the list of babies born in Greene county during the year of 1910. The Jefferson and Churdan reports are not in yet, consequently a comparsion of the report with that of the preceding year is yet impossible.

SCRANTON.

Paul Edward Edwards, son of Albert E. Edwards, born July 14. Lloyd Nelson Veneman, son of Nelson J. Veneman, born Aug. 30.

Nelson J. Veneman, Dorn Aug. 30.
Pat Squibb, son of Caleb Claude
Squibb, born Dec. 21.
James Emmett McNabb, son of
Chas. McNabb, born Jully 3.
Bernard Clopton, son of David II.
Clopton, born Oct. 13.

Frederick Wesley Johnson, son of Chomas Nelson Johnson, born Thomas Nelson Jonhson, born Sept. 18. Lawrence Byron Olive, son of Ray Clair Olive, born May 5. Mary Evelyn Frease, daughter of John A. Frease, born July 17.

FAMILY HISTORY SPOTLIGHT

Newspapers are valuable repositories for uncovering birth information. These historical records often contain birth announcements, capturing the joyous moments of new arrivals into the world.

Want to learn more? We have created a course all about the different ways to find the birth of an ancestor in newspapers. For a limited time, enroll in BORN IN PRINT for FREE.

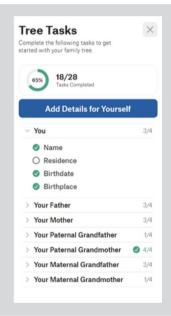

Coupon Code: AUGUST

STORIED SPOTLIGHT

TREE TASKS

Building your family tree from scratch can be a daunting task for those new to genealogy and family history. At Storied, we've added Tree Tasks to help and encourage you with the first generations of your family tree. The tasks represent 28 initial bits of information to get your tree growing.

From name, birthdate, and birthplace, to any location a person has lived, these details help build your family tree's foundation. Best of all, it's free to build a tree at Storied. Start building yours today!

SANTED --- FEMALE HELP. WANTED-GIRL-Good nurse. Inquire at 219
West Fifth street. 110

WANTED-GIRL-Thirteen or fourteen years old, to wash dishes, and assist in light housework. Call at 325 West Third street.

W ANTED-GIBL-To cook, wash, and iron it small family; German preferred and reference required. No. 30 Coleman street.

WANTED-GIRL-To do the work in small family. Loguire at 816 Clark street. 148

WANTED-GIRLS-One for Singer and two for Weeter & Wisson machines; also, hand-sewer and button-hole maker, at 213 W. Fourth street. 159

WANTED ... MALE HELP. WANTED-MACHINE HANDS-Good, one isher and one presser, to work on pauts. Juire at 30 McFarland street.

EXPLORE THE COLLECTION

ADVERTISEMENTS & CLASSIFIEDS

Newspaper advertisements can provide a wealth of information for those researching their family history. Old classified ads can give insight into where an ancestor lived, their occupation, interests, and even personal announcements like engagements or weddings.

Display ads can show which businesses an ancestor owned or worked for.

Advertisements can also reflect the cultural interests and social events of the time period an ancestor lived in. For family historians, perusing historic newspapers ads offers a unique window into the daily lives of their forebears. The details found in these advertisements can add richness, personality, and context to a family narrative.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE

"The Family Treehouse" is a new podcast produced by Storied that brings together family history enthusiasts and skilled storytellers. With a passion for genealogy and an appreciation for the power of storytelling, the podcast invites guests to share their journeys of discovery, recounting the triumphs, challenges, and hidden gems unearthed. Watch on the Storied YouTube channel or listen on Spotify!

NEW & UPDATED COLLECTIONS

Visit our PUBLICATIONS link on the website for a complete list.

Traverse City Record Eagle
Traverse City, MI
1897-2023

The Daily Times-News
Burlington, NC
1953-2021

